Summer Research Assistant Position

Research Scope
Application of cutting-edge R&D on machine learning/AI algorithms

Location
Online remote

Position description
We seek volunteer research assistant in the summer of 2022 to join our research team at University of Minnesota Twin Cities (UMN) to develop novel applications based on cutting-edge AI research and participate in collaborations with the industry. The participation will likely bring invaluable experience to your career.

Opportunity
- Work closely with professors and PhD students across multiple universities
- Gain valuable experiences and get prepared for job hunting, graduate program application, etc.

Minimum qualifications
- Undergraduate or graduate students in EE, CS, and related fields
- Professional in Python programming

Preferred qualifications
- Basic understanding of machine learning
- UI/UX design
- Web development
- Database development

Contact
Please send your resume to enmao.diao@duke.edu with the title "Applicant for summer research assistant position".